Edgewood School is an independent specialist school for students aged 7 - 16 years. All students have an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHCP) that details their special educational needs. Students attending Edgewood School will have Autism along with a learning difficulty. In addition, students may have additional speech and language difficulties, medical and/or mental health needs.

This SEND Information Report outlines the ways in which we provide support for all our students in order for them to thrive and fulfil their individual potential; we aim always to offer a 'Can do' environment where teaching staff, students and parents/carers work together to provide the best possible learning opportunities based on students' individual starting points. Our aim is to see students living happy and fulfilled lives.

1. What kinds of Special Educational Needs does our school provide for?

Edgewood School provides specialist education for students aged 7 - 16years. All students have an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHCP). Students are diagnosed as having an Autistic Spectrum Condition and a learning difficulty. Some students may also may have a physical disability and/or medical and/or mental health needs.

The school is organised into classes that are generally grouped by age within Key Stages. However, in some cases students may be grouped according to a particular need, which may be a smaller class with a mixed age range. There may be occasions where a student is taught on their own but the plan will always be to work towards reintegration into a class setting. Decisions will be taken following a detailed assessment on entry, consideration of the needs of that individual as detailed in the EHCP and the needs of the cohort at the school.

2. How will I know how the school supports my child?

A placement at Edgewood School follows a comprehensive assessment and detailed transition plan. Information is shared by everyone who knows the child best; family, previous school, social worker, respite placement and any other professional involved.

During the first six weeks of a student joining Edgewood School, staff use a variety of assessment tools to ascertain their strengths and needs in order to provide a baseline for starting points. Individual plans are written for each student, together with care plans, risk assessments and positive behaviour support plans. Students have a baseline assessment in the main curriculum areas, from which all future progress is measured. Individual targets are set and shared with the student and parents/carers. Throughout the year every student's progress is carefully tracked to ensure that any underachievement is quickly noticed and put right.

All EHCPs are reviewed at least annually and follow a Person-Centred Approach. This gives the opportunity to consider whether it remains appropriate and to review the progress the student has made over the previous year. Parents/carers along with all relevant professionals will be invited to the meeting to provide a holistic view on a student's progress and to provide advice and guidance if necessary.

A home- school communication book is used on a daily basis to facilitate the exchange of important/useful information between school and home. In addition, Evidence for Learning is used to show parents/carers the work their child has been doing and to mark significant milestones of progress. Parents will be encouraged to contribute to this record with comments and photographs of activities during weekends and school holidays. As well as the annual review of the EHCP the school hosts parents' consultation meetings and an end of year report using Evidence for Learning. Between these times the school welcomes visits or telephone calls from parents/carers to discuss any issues.

In year 9 staff will start to consider, with the student and their family, future placement options with advice about college placements and careers information and guidance.

The school is also subject to the Ofsted inspection according to the framework.

3. How will the curriculum be matched to my child's needs?

The National Curriculum is used as a reference point but teachers adapt this to meet the needs of our student cohort using as guidance the EQUALS schemes of work. More information about our curriculum can be found on the school's website. Curriculum - The SENAD Group

Teachers plan lessons according to their knowledge of each student and according to each student's current assessed levels of achievement, planning work which encompasses prior learning, personal interests and agreed learning pathways. As appropriate, additional communication support will be offered to students to facilitate their learning, whether through sign language, objects of reference, picture symbols, photographs, switches or voice output communication aids (VOCAs). A rolling programme of topics is used as a vehicle for delivering the curriculum across all Key Stages. Staff skilfully adapt their teaching in order to build on what has been learned earlier in the student's school career, working towards developing the skills, knowledge and understanding required for adulthood.

A well -planned transition programme is put in place and regularly evaluated to ensure it meets the needs of the student and his/her family.

All students at Edgewood School will have an Education Health and Care Plan (EHCP); the decision regarding the support required will be reached following a thorough assessment of the child's needs and the needs as described in the EHCP.
