Aims

This policy aims to:

- Create a positive culture that promotes high standards of behaviour, ensuring that all pupils have the opportunity to learn in a calm, safe and supportive environment
- Support students to reflect on their behaviour and its impact on themselves and others
- Teach what positive behaviour looks like and the value behind this
- Emphasise the importance of good behaviour and its relationship to learning
- Provide a framework for the consistent management of all behaviour related issues
- Encourage every member of AHS to show care and consideration to other members of the school community and to the wider community
- Define what we consider to be unacceptable behaviour, including bullying and discrimination

Principles

At AHS we recognise that effective learning and teaching only take place in an atmosphere where there is a clear understanding of what is and what is not acceptable behaviour. We recognise that student's behaviour may be impacted by a Special Educational Need or Disability and that when incidents of misbehaviour arise, we will consider them in relation to a student's SEND, although we also recognise that not every incident of misbehaviour will be connected to their SEND. Decisions on whether a student's SEND had an impact on an incident of misbehaviour will be made on a case-by-case basis.

The following principles should be followed to ensure that our approach to behaviour management is successful.

1. An understanding and acceptance of the policy by every member of the school is important if our aims are to be achieved.
2. The student behaviour management policy is a partnership between all members of the school.

3. Our method of behaviour management is centred on the principles of restorative practice and requires a focus on the development of positive relationships and opportunities for relationships to be repaired if they are damaged.
4. The ability to self-reflect and implement self-discipline is the ultimate aim for all members of AHS.
5. Negative behaviour patterns can be changed if behaviour management is handled consistently and with opportunities for reflection.
6. Effective behaviour management seeks to avoid aggressive confrontation.

Context for students at AHS

All students at AHS have a diagnosis of Autism and/or Speech, Language and Communication difficulties. Many students have arrived at AHS from a mainstream placement that had broken down due to the provision being unable to meet the complex needs of these young people. Many students arrive at AHS reporting negative experiences of previous behaviour management structures, feeling that their inability to conform to the expectations of a busy mainstream school have been regarded as misbehaviours. Implications of this include many students increased anxiety around how their behaviour is managed in a school environment. Many students require a more concise approach without lengthy codes of conduct or confusing language.

Our student voice survey carried out in June 2024 shows that the majority of students feel that they generally behave well but that they recognise that factors that lead to a sensory overload in an individual or their ability to manage changes to routine can have a negative impact on their behaviour. Our survey also highlighted that our students want staff to consider the context of each behaviour when managing incidents of misbehaviour.

Practice

This policy should be read in conjunction with SENAD policy 515E Positive Behaviour Support Policy - English Sites which is located in the documents section in SharePoint.

Good behaviour will be established by developing good relationships within the school community and by building upon mutual respect.

Pastoral time plays an important role in promoting our ethos where respect and good behaviour are the expected norm. The pastoral system also provides each student with a team of adults with whom they are able to develop their relationships and begin to build their sense of community. This in turn provides opportunities where issues such as tolerance, honesty, rights and responsibilities and bullying can be addressed. It is the pastoral key team who oversee behaviour management for all of their students in the first instance. This includes ensuring that the principles of restorative justice are used routinely.

The school uses the 3Rs (Right Place, Right Time and Right Thing) and the 3Cs (Care for yourself, for others and for our environment) as the basis for student expectations and should be used by all staff in managing behaviour. Posters reminding the students of these expectations are located in every classroom and key communal areas. The 3 Rs and 3 Cs form part of our weekly collective thought PowerPoint and pastoral lessons each half term include specific reminders of our expectations and opportunities to discuss the rationale.

All staff receive regular training on how to respond to instances of misbehaviour, this includes weekly opportunities within morning Briefings for each site to collectively discuss any concerns around behaviour. This allows for an opportunity to share information to help staff manage potentially problematic situations. This practice involves contact teams sharing how we need to communicate with individual students to ensure that a consistent message is given to all students.

We expect that all members of staff will offer reminders of our 3Rs and 3Cs when they observe that these are not being followed. This is not to be confrontational but to act as a reminder of our expectations, using consistent language.

In some instances, such as when trust has been broken or when things have been said that should not have been said, we encourage a restorative conversation to take place at a time when all parties feel able to engage. This includes peer- peer and student-staff conversations. There are a number of forms that this can take from “Scales of Justice” for students who need a visual representation or a conversation following the format below (the language used might need to be differentiated with support of the speech and language therapist to enable students to understand):

- What happened?
- What were you thinking/feeling at the time?
- What are your thoughts since?
- How did this make people including yourself feel?
- Who has been affected?
- How can we do things differently in the future?

All instances of negative student behaviour will be recorded on the school incident database (PBS) and/or CPOMS for incidents of bullying. This information is managed and analysed by the behaviour team and SLMT on a weekly basis. This system allows us to support the pastoral team and implement additional support where needed.

Students who need additional support to manage their behaviour effectively will be supported in conjunction with their pastoral Key Team by the Site Management Team who will meet with the student for a pre-agreed period of time to reflect on behaviour, to set goals and to facilitate the repair of any relationships that might have occurred. (See appendix 1 for the behaviour progression criteria)

Once this period of additional support ends, the student’s behaviour management will either return to the standard provision whereby the Key Team manage it or should the student continue to misbehave the Senior Leadership Team will hold a series of pre-arranged meetings with the student to support the student reflect on their choices, to reflect on the strategies that they are developing to help them to manage their behaviour and to monitor improvement. At this stage parents or carers will be invited to two of these meetings to help support the young person.

If a student reaches this level and is still unable to manage their behaviour the Senior Leadership Team will meet to discuss how the student’s placement at Alderwasley Hall School can be stabilised. At this point, parents/carers and possibly a representative from the Local Authority will be involved.

Rewarding positive behaviour using our Green, Amber, Red Approach.

All students that consistently remaining on the Green level of our behaviour management system (overseen by the Key Team) receive a half termly email home in acknowledgement of them meeting our expected behaviour standards. They are also entered into a prize draw which is drawn at the end of each half term.

Students who move from the Amber or the Red level of our behaviour management system to the Green level and remain there for a half term will receive an email home acknowledging this and they will be entered into a separate prize draw which will be drawn at regular periods throughout the school year.

The rewards will be overseen and issued by the behaviour management team.

Roles and Responsibilities

Students will be made aware of the following during their induction into the behaviour culture at AHS:

- The expected standard of behaviour they should be displaying at school
- That they have a duty to follow the behaviour policy
- The school's key rules and routines
- The therapeutic support given to help them to manage their emotional regulation
- The pastoral support that is available to them to help them meet the behaviour standards
- The rewards they can earn for meeting the behaviour standards, and the consequences they will face if they don't meet the standards

Students will be supported to meet the behaviour standards, they will be provided with reminders of our behaviour expectations and will be supported to develop their understanding of the school's behaviour policy and wider culture at the beginning of each half term during part of their scheduled pastoral lesson.

Students will be asked to give feedback on their experience of the behaviour culture to support the evaluation, improvement and implementation of the behaviour policy.

Extra support and induction will be provided for pupils who are mid-phase arrivals.

Staff are responsible for:

- Creating a calm and safe and stimulating environment that encourages students to be engaged

 - Displaying the behaviour curriculum or their own classroom rules and to use the pastoral resources to support behaviour management

Members of the Behaviour Management Team have the additional responsibility of meeting each week to analyse the behaviour data and to liaise with Key Teams and the Leadership Teams so that behaviour strategies are implemented and reviewed.

Parents and carers are responsible for

- Offering appropriate training in behaviour management, and the impact of special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) and mental health needs on behaviour, to any staff who require it, so they can fulfil their duties set out in this policy
- Ensuring this policy works alongside the safeguarding policy to offer students both sanctions and support when necessary
- Ensuring that the data from the behaviour log is reviewed regularly, to make sure that no groups of students are being disproportionately impacted by this policy
